

Community Wellness Worker Aboriginal Healing and Wellness Strategy

► Funded through the Aboriginal Healing and Wellness Strategy (AHWS), the Community Wellness Worker Program is one that is designed to reduce family violence and improve Aboriginal Health and Wellness. Community wellness is defined holistically to encompass the mental, spiritual, physical, and emotional aspects of an individual and/or community.

- For the Rainy River First Nations, the Community Wellness Worker provides support to all Social Services staff with emphasis on community wellness programming. Promoting collaboration and teamwork is also an essential characteristic of the Community Wellness Worker position.

Financial support for community events can be provided through:

- ✓ Brighter Futures/Building Healthy Communities
- ✓ Proposal Writing
- ✓ RRFNs Trust
- ✓ Other Community Programs

► Wellness Needs

Rest assured that your inquiries in person, by phone or e-mail will be dealt with in a respectful and confidential manner.

If we can't help directly, we will always do our best to work with you to find the help or services you need.

- Needs-based Services
- Addictions and Wellness Supports
- Grief Recovery Program
- Employment Supports
- Resume Writing
- On-Reserve Food Voucher Program
- Advocacy for Emergency Supports

Joe Hunter
Community Wellness Worker
P.O. Box 450
Emo, ON P0w 1E0
Tel: (807) 482-2479 ext. 231
j.hunter@bellnet.ca